TRAMUNTANA XXI

Tramuntana XXI is an entity that seeks to transmit knowledge and promote practices that can facilitate the sustainable management of the natural and cultural heritage of the Serra de Tramuntana, while helping to drive its socio-economic dynamisation.

Mountain estates suffer from a common problem: complex management.

The combination of the low profitability, specific environmental conditions, intense public use, cultural heritage, the threat of forest fires and pests, production, marketing and maintenance costs makes it crucial to be able to detect problems and identify potential. With this in mind, the proposal of management formulas can help to optimise investments and improve results.

With this objective, Tramuntana XXI wants to support the managers and/or owners of properties in the region to help them achieve greater efficiency in the preservation, maintenance and exploitation of their land, with a view to reducing costs and achieving more impactful interventions.

In line with this, Tramuntana XXI members are offered a free preliminary diagnosis of their estates. They can also benefit from a rigorous and comprehensive study that allows them to initiate new activities aimed at bolstering their management model.

We operate in all lines of action:

- Agriculture
- Stock breeding
- Forest management
- Wildlife
- Public use
- Ethnologic heritage
- Infrastructures
- Energy management
- Water management, etc.

in order to ensure the optimum preservation of the Serra de Tramuntana, entailing fewer costs and yielding better results.

IF YOU'RE A TRAMUNTANA XXI MEMBER, THE PRELIMINARY DIAGNOSIS IS FREE.
